

Leadership Express

This is a two-day course which covers the major concepts taught in the five-day Leadership series. It is designed to prepare organisational leaders to understand their roles, manage teams, use their time productively and manage stress in themselves and their staff.

In many organisation managers have or are trained in the key skills required by the job, but they lack the ability to inspire others with a vision for the future, to motivate people or make tough decisions. In this session, we explore how to rise above being merely a manager to becoming a leader who can inspire others to achieve great things for themselves and unlock team creativity.
